Notwithstanding all this, the result must remain in doubt so long as the Third Party strength is undetermined.

The coming joint discussion between Foraker and Hoadly, on Thursday night at Toledo and on Saturday night at Cincinnati, has intensified public interest. Foraker's friends feel confilent that he is more than a match for Hoadly. If this hate, it may be doubted whether it is well-founded. Hoadly is an accomplished man, of abundant resource, of keen and ready wit, expert in the tactics of intellectual fence. It is not easy to see how a woman is deteriorated as the companion and friend of a man—as the participator in his aspirations, his troubles, his studies, his higher life—because her conditions release her from the duty of devising the details of a dinner, from the irritation of demoniacal domestics, from the drudgery of checking the grocer's passbook and the said realization that all bakers are liars. of checking the grocer's passbook and the sad realization that all bakers are Hars and mostly robbers as well.

The stoica Halstead Letter.

The publication of the Cincinnati Enguier of a letter written by Murat Halstead to Secretary Chase twenty-two years ago turns out to have been stolen from the deak of Mr. J. U. Shuckers, now of Philadelphia, formerly private secretary to Chase. This is the explanation given by Mr. Shuckers. The Level Louseur and Taylor would be supported by Mr. J. Warther were 5,000 backelors and only six marriageable girls. You get a great many tales in the East about the lone Young women who take up farms in young women who take up farms bakota and reject all offers of marriag Why, they don't live in the territory year before they are wedded!

Mr. Halstead has made a manly defense of himself. Of course the publication of the letter has given him pain. The fact that even the earnestness of his love for the throne he had misjudged such conspicutous champions of the Union as Lincoln, Stanton and Grant would of itself be sufficient cause of regret and mortification. His letter can be defended on the ground of an important loyalty not confined to Mr. Halstant of Mr. Hals

What is to be said of those who are reponsible for the theft of private correspondence? First it was a theft—an offense punishable with imprisonment. The motive of the publication was bad. There was no pretense or possibility of accomplishing a good end. It was a spiteful and realicions act. Mr. Halstead's position is more desirable than that of the persons who have tried to drag him down.

Mr. Manchester Takes Charge Seventh Avenue M. E. Church

The pleasant parlors of the Scovill

M. E. Church were completely filled last evening by a large and social filled last evening by a large and social company of the members and friends of that church, gathered to extend a hearty welcome to the newly appointed pastor, Rev. C. E. Manchester. With Mr. R. A. Field as master of ceremonies, the following excellent programme was carried through: plano duet, by Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Chamberlin; prayer by Rev. Mr. Palmer; vocal solo, with flute obligato, by Miss Betha Weden; address of welcome on behalf of the board of trustees, by Mr. A. G. Carpenter; addresses on behalf of the board of trustees, by Mr. A. G. Carpenter; addresses on behalf of the Sunday School, by Mrs. F. N. Carter; on behalf of the young people, by Mr. C. E. Cornell; vocal solo, by Mrs. F. A. Combs; addresses on behalf of the young ladles, by Mrs. J. H. Hurlbat; on behalf of the church in general, by Mr. C. S. McKimreply by Rev. C. E. Mauchester; vocal solo, by Mrs. F. A. Combs. The addresses and reply were characterized by great cordiality, and were happy in the extreme. The music was of an exceptionally high order. At the conclusion of these exercises the pastor and his family were tendered an informal reception, the evening's entertainment closing with the serving of light refreshments. Rev. Mr. Manchester, whose pastorate is begunthus happily, has an envisible record as a pastor and preacher, having hereofore served most acceptably in Wheeling and Parkareburg, W. How the B ttom Fell Out of a Spring.

At the mouth of Cottonwood Creek, in Gentile Valley and about ten miles east of Oxford, there are some half dozen warm springs. One of these has been used for bathing purposes for many years by those living in the vicinity, and also by pleasure living in the vicinity, and also by pleasure seekers. It was about 100 feet in diameter and circular in form and very deep, and the temperature of the water made it delightful for bathing purposes. On Wednesday night last the people living near it were startled by a loud roaring noise like the rushing of a huge body of water over a cataract, and in the morning it was found that the bottom had dropped out of their bath tub. All that remained of the spring was a hole in the shape of a gigantic basin about fifty feet deep and containing about four feet of boiling water at the bottom. ter at the bottom.
